

Compromise Amendments

Draft opinion of Mr. Kelly on the proposal for a regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free of movement of such data.

Compromise amendments proposals

(CAs on recitals (CA 1-29) to be technically aligned once the CAs on articles (CA 30-77) are finalised)

CA 1 to Recital 8 (replacing am. 176 - Andersdotter, and 177 - Rübig)

(8) In order to ensure consistent and high level of protection of individuals and to remove the obstacles to flows of personal data, the level of protection of the rights and freedoms of individuals with regard to the processing of such data should be equivalent in all Member States and identical where possible. Consistent and homogenous application of the rules for the protection of the fundamental rights and freedoms of natural and legal persons with regard to the processing of personal data should be ensured throughout the Union.

CA 2 to Recital 11 (replacing am. 180 - Andersdotter, 181 - Gyürk, and 182 - Dati)

(11) In order to ensure a consistent level of protection for individuals throughout the Union and to prevent divergences hampering the free movement of data within the internal market, a Regulation is necessary to provide legal certainty and transparency for economic operators, including micro, small and medium-sized enterprises, and to provide individuals in all Member States with the same level of legally enforceable rights and obligations and responsibilities for controllers and processors, to ensure consistent monitoring of the processing of personal data, and equivalent sanctions in all Member States as well as effective co-operation by the supervisory authorities of different Member States. Where demonstrably necessary and without undermining either protection of personal data or single market principles, to take account of the specific situation of micro, small and medium-sized enterprises, this Regulation includes a number of derogations. In addition, the Union institutions and bodies, Member States and their supervisory authorities are encouraged to take account of the specific needs of micro, small and medium-sized enterprises in the application of this Regulation in consultation with the parties concerned, and also take into account the 'Think Small First' principle, so that the interests of micro, small and medium-sized enterprises are taken into account at the very early stages of policy making. The notion of micro, small and medium-sized enterprises should draw upon Commission Recommendation 2003/361/EC of 6 May 2003 concerning the definition of micro, small and medium-sized enterprises.

CA 3 to Recital 23 (replacing am. 189 - Andersdotter, and 190 - Valean, Creutzmann, Rohde, Kelly)

(23) The principles of protection should apply only to specific any information concerning an identified or identifiable person. To determine whether a person is identifiable, account should be taken: (i) only of those means likely [deletion: reasonably] to be used by the controller or by any other natural or legal person to identify the individual, and (ii) of the [deletion: reasonable] likeliness of a person being identified. The principles of data protection should not apply to data rendered anonymous in such a way that the data subject is no longer identifiable from the data, taking full account of the technological "state of the art" and technological trends.

CA 4 to Recital 24 (replacing am. 192 - Andersdotter, 193 - Valean, Creutzmann, Kelly,)

(24) When using online services, individuals may be associated with one or more online identifiers provided by their devices, applications, tools and protocols, such as Internet Protocol addresses, cookie identifiers or other unique identifiers. These identifiers may leave traces which, combined with other information received by the servers, may be used to single out natural persons. It follows that identification numbers, location data, online identifiers or other specific factors may not necessarily be considered as personal data .

This Regulation should be applicable to processing involving [deletion: such] personal data, unless the[se] identifiers demonstrably do not relate to natural persons, such as for example the IP addresses of web servers and thus cannot be considered as 'personal data' as defined in Article 4(2).

CA 5 to Recital 25 (replacing am. 195 - Andersdotter, 197 - Ticau, and 198 - Valean, Creutzmann, Kelly)

(25) Consent should be given unambiguously by any appropriate method within the context of the product or service being offered enabling a freely given specific and informed indication of the data subject's wishes, ensuring that individuals are aware that they give their consent to the processing of personal data, including by ticking a box when visiting an Internet website or by any other statement or conduct which clearly indicates in this context the data subject's acceptance of the proposed processing of their personal data. Informed consent should be facilitated insofar as possible by user-friendly information about the types of processing to be carried out. Silence, mere use of a service, or inactivity, such as not un-ticking pre-ticked boxes, should therefore not constitute consent. Consent should cover all processing activities carried out for the same purpose or purposes. If the data subject's consent is to be given following an electronic request, the request must be clear, concise and not unnecessarily disruptive to the use of the service for which it is provided.

CA 6 to Recital 26 (replacing am. 200 - Valean, Creutzmann, Kelly, and 201 - Rohde)

(26) Personal data relating to health should include in particular all personal data pertaining to the health status of a data subject including genetic information; information about the registration of the individual for the provision of health services; information about payments or eligibility for healthcare with respect to the individual; a number, symbol or particular assigned to an individual to uniquely identify the individual for health purposes; any information about the individual collected in the course of the provision of health services to the individual; personal data derived from the testing or examination of a body part, bodily substance or biological sample; identification of a person as provider of healthcare to the individual; or any information on e.g. a disease, disability, disease risk, medical history, clinical treatment, or the actual physiological or biomedical state of the data subject independent of its source, such as e.g. from a physician or other health professional, a hospital, a medical device, or an in vitro diagnostic test.

CA 7 to Recital 27 (replacing am. 3 - Rapporteur, 202 - Chichester, and 203 - Andersdotter)

(27) Where a controller or a processor has multiple establishments in the Union, including but not limited to cases where the controller or the processor is a group of undertakings, the main establishment of a controller in the Union for the purposes of this Regulation should be determined according to objective criteria and should imply the effective and real exercise of management activities determining the main decisions as to the purposes, conditions and means of processing through stable arrangements. This criterion should not depend whether the processing of personal data is actually carried out at that location; the presence and use of technical means and technologies for processing personal data or processing activities do not, in themselves, constitute such main establishment and are therefore not determining criteria for a main establishment. [deletion: The main establishment of the processor...]

CA 8 to Recital 29 (replacing am. 205 - Andersdotter, and 206 - Harkin, Kelly)

(29) Children deserve specific protection of their personal data, as they may be less aware of risks, consequences, safeguards and their rights in relation to the processing of personal data. Such protection is particularly important in the context of social networks, where children should be aware of the identities of those with whom they are communicating. To determine when an individual is a child, this Regulation should take over the definition laid down by the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. No reference to child protection in this Regulation should be understood as an implicit instruction that protection of personal data of adults should be treated with less care than would have been the case if the reference was not included.

CA 9 to Recital 32 (replacing am. 209 - Ticau, and 210 - Andersdotter)

(32) Where processing is based on the data subject's consent, the controller should have the burden of proving that the data subject has given the consent to the processing operation. In particular in the context of a written declaration on another matter, safeguards should ensure that the data subject is aware that and to what extent consent is given. To comply with the principle of data minimisation, this burden of proof should not be understood neither as requiring positive identification of data subjects unless necessary nor as causing more data to be processed than otherwise have been the case.

CA 10 to Recital 33 (replacing am. 211 - Andersdotter, and 212 - Ticau)

(33) In order to ensure free consent, it should be clarified that consent does not provide a valid legal ground where the individual has no genuine and free choice and is subsequently not able to refuse or withdraw consent without detriment. Consent should also not provide a legal basis for data processing when the data subject has no access to different equivalent services. Default settings such as pre-ticked boxes, silence, or the simple use of a service do not imply consent. Consent can only be obtained for processing that is lawful and thus not excessive in relation to the purpose. Disproportional data processing cannot be legitimised though obtaining consent.

CA 11 to Recital 34 (replacing am. 215 - Niebler, 216 - Ticau, and 217 - Andersdotter)

(34) Consent should not provide a valid legal ground for the processing of personal data, where there is a clear imbalance between the data subject and the controller. This is especially the case where the data subject is in a situation of dependence from the controller, among others, [deletion: where personal data are processed by...] where a controller has a substantial market power with respect to certain products or services and where these products or services are offered on condition of consent to the processing of personal data, or where a unilateral and nonessential change in terms of service gives a data subject no option other than accept the change or abandon an online resource in which they have invested significant time. Where the controller is a public authority, there would be an imbalance only in the specific data processing operations where the public authority can impose an obligation by virtue of its relevant public powers and the consent cannot be deemed as freely given, taking into account the interest of the data subject.

CA12 to Recital 38 (replacing am. 6 - Rapporteur, 221 - Ticau, and 222 - Johansson)

(38) The legitimate interests of a controller, or of the third party or parties in whose interest the data is processed, may provide a legal basis for processing, provided that the interests or the fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject are not overriding. To ensure clarity, the Data Protection Board will set out comprehensive guidelines on what can be defined as "legitimate interest". Processing would need careful assessment in particular where the data subject is a child, given that children deserve specific protection. The data subject should have the right to object the processing, free of charge. To ensure transparency, the controller should be obliged to explicitly inform the data subject on the legitimate interests pursued and on the right to object, and also be obliged to document these legitimate interests. Given that it is for the legislator to provide by law the legal basis for public authorities to process data, this legal ground should not apply for the processing by public authorities in the performance of their tasks.

CA 13 to Recital 40 (replacing am. 7 - Rapporteur, 223 - Andersdotter, 224 - Ticau, and 225 - Vaelean, Creutzmann, Kelly)

(40) The processing of personal data for other purposes should be only allowed where the processing is compatible with those purposes for which the data have been initially collected, such as where the processing is necessary for historical, statistical or scientific purposes. Where the other purpose is not compatible with the initial one for which the data are collected, the controller should obtain the consent of the data subject for this other purpose [deletion: or should base the processing on another legitimate ground...]. In any case, the application of the principles set out by this Regulation and in particular the information of the data subject on those other purposes should be ensured.

CA 14 to Recital 41 (replacing am. 227 - Andersdotter, and 228 - Ticau)

(41) Personal data which are, by their nature, particularly sensitive and vulnerable in relation to fundamental rights or privacy, deserve specific protection. Such data should not be processed, unless the data subject gives his informed consent. However, derogations from this prohibition should be explicitly provided for in respect of specific needs, in particular where the processing is carried out in the course of legitimate activities by certain associations or foundations the purpose of which is to permit the exercise of fundamental freedoms of the data subjects in question.

CA 15 to Recital 45 (replacing am. 230 - Andersdotter, and 231 - Ticau)

(45) If the data processed by a controller do not permit the controller to identify a natural person, the data controller should not be obliged to acquire additional information in order to identify the data subject for the sole purpose of complying with any provision of this Regulation. In case of a request for access, the controller should be entitled to ask the data subject for further information to enable the data controller to locate the personal data which that person seeks. The data controller shall not invoke a possible lack of information to refuse a request of access, when this information can be provided by the data subject to enable such access.

CA 16 to Recital 51 (replacing am. 236 - Valean, Creutzmann, Kelly, and 237 - Andersdotter)

(51) Any person should have the right of access to personal data which has been collected concerning them, and to exercise this right easily, in order to be aware and verify the lawfulness of the processing. Every data subject should therefore have the right to know and obtain communication in particular for what purposes the personal data are processed, for what period, which recipients receive the personal data, what is the logic of the personal data that are undergoing the processing and what might be the consequences [deletion: , at least when...] of such processing. This right should not adversely affect the rights and freedoms of others, including trade secrets or intellectual property, such as in relation to copyright protecting the software. However, the result of these considerations should not be that all information is refused to the data subject.

CA 17 to Recital 52 (replacing am. 238 - Valean, Creutzmann, Kelly, and 239 - Andersdotter)

(52) The controller should use all reasonable measures within the context of the product or service being provided, or otherwise within the context of the relationship between the controller and the data subject, and the sensitivity of the personal data being processed to verify the authenticity of a subject access request, in particular in the context of online services and online identifiers. A controller should not retain nor be forced to gather personal data for the unique purpose of being able to react to potential requests.

CA 18 to Recital 58 (replacing am. 10 - Rapporteur, 245 - Andersdotter, and 246 - Rübzig)

(58) Every natural and legal person should have the right not to be subject to a measure which is based on profiling by means of automated processing and which produces legal effects concerning that natural or legal person or significantly affects that natural or legal person. Actual effects should be comparable in their intensity to legal effects to fall under this provision. This is not the case for measures relating to commercial communication, like for example in the field of customer relationship management or customer acquisition. However, a measure based on profiling by automated data processing and which produces legal effects concerning a natural or legal person or significantly affects a natural person should be allowed when expressly authorised by law, carried out in the course of entering or performance of a contract, or when the data subject has given his consent. In any case, such processing should be subject to suitable safeguards, including specific information of the data subject and the right to obtain human intervention and that such measure should not concern a child. Specifically, such processing should never, whether intentionally or not, lead to the discrimination of data subjects on the basis of race or ethnic origin, political opinions, religion or beliefs, trade union membership, or sexual orientation. Given the risk of discrimination, such processing should not be used in order to predict very rare characteristics.

CA 19 to Recital 60 (replacing am. 11 - Rapporteur, and 248 - Andersdotter)

(60) Overall responsibility and liability of the controller for any processing of personal data carried out by the controller or on the controller's behalf should be established in order to ensure accountability. In particular, the controller should ensure and be obliged to demonstrate the compliance of each processing operation with this Regulation. Otherwise unnecessary data processing may not be justified on the basis of the need to respect this obligation.

CA 20 to Recital 61 (replacing am. 249 - Andersdotter, and 250 - Valean, Creutzmann, Kelly)

(61) To meet consumer and business expectations around the protection of the rights and freedoms of data subjects with regard to the processing of personal data, appropriate organisational measures should be taken, both at the time of the design of the processing and its underlying technologies as well as at the time of the processing itself, to ensure that the requirements of this Regulation are met. Measures having as an objective to increase consumer information and ease of choice shall be encouraged, based on industry cooperation and favouring innovative solutions, products and services. Data protection by design is the process by which data protection and privacy are integrated in the development of products and services through both technical and organisational measures. Data protection by default means that products and services are by default configured in a way that limits the processing and especially the disclosure of personal data. In particular, personal data should not be disclosed to an unlimited number of persons by default.

CA 21 to Recital 61a (new) (replacing am. 12 - Rapporteur, and 251 - Andersdotter)

(61a) This Regulation encourages enterprises to develop internal programmes that will identify the processing operations likely to present specific risks to the rights and freedoms of data subjects by virtue of their nature, their scope or their purposes, and to put in place appropriate data protection safeguards and develop innovative data protection-by-design solutions and data protection enhancing techniques. Enterprises would then demonstrate publicly and proactively their compliance with the provisions and spirit of this Regulation and thus increase the trust of the European citizens. Corporate accountability on personal data protection cannot however exempt an enterprise from any obligation laid down in this Regulation.

CA 22 to Recital 65 (replacing am. 13 - Rapporteur, 256 - Valean, Creutzmann, Rohde, Kelly, and 257 - Del Castillo Vera)

(65) In order to demonstrate compliance with this Regulation, the controller should document each processing operation under its responsibility. Each controller should be obliged to co-operate with the supervisory authority and make this documentation, on request, available to it, so that it might serve for monitoring those processing operations.

CA 23 to Recital 66 (replacing am. 258 - Gyürk, and 259 - Andersdotter)

(66) In order to maintain security and to prevent processing in breach of this Regulation, the controller or processor should evaluate the risks inherent to the processing and implement measures to mitigate those risks. In particular, the controller or processor shall duly take into account the greater risks arising from the processing of personal data of the data subject, due to the sensitive nature of the data. These measures should ensure an appropriate level of security, taking into account the state of the art and the costs of their implementation in relation to the risks and the nature of the personal data to be protected. When establishing technical standards and organisational measures to ensure security of processing, [deletion: the Commission should promote] technological neutrality, interoperability and innovation should be promoted, and, where appropriate, cooperate with third countries should be encouraged.

CA 24 to Recital 67 (replacing am. 14 - Rapporteur, 260 - Kalfin, 261 - Ticaú, and 262 - Rübzig)

(67) A personal data breach may, if not addressed in an adequate and timely manner, result in substantial economic loss and social harm, including identity fraud, to the individual concerned. Therefore, as soon as the controller becomes aware that such a breach has occurred, the controller should notify the breach to the supervisory authority without undue delay. Where this cannot be achieved within a reasonable time period, an explanation of the reasons for the delay should accompany the notification. The individuals whose personal data could be adversely affected by the breach should be notified without undue delay in order to allow them to take the necessary precautions. A breach should be considered as adversely affecting the personal data or privacy of a data subject where it could result in, for example, identity theft or fraud, physical harm, significant humiliation or damage to reputation. The notification should describe the nature of the personal data breach as well as recommendations as well as recommendations for the individual concerned to mitigate potential adverse effects. Notifications to data subjects should be made as soon as reasonably feasible, and in close cooperation with the supervisory authority and respecting guidance provided by it or other relevant authorities (e.g. law enforcement authorities). For example, the chance for data subjects to mitigate an immediate risk of harm would call for a prompt notification of data subjects whereas the need to implement appropriate measures against continuing or similar data breaches may justify a longer delay.

CA 25 to Recital 87 (replacing am. 17 - Rapporteur, and 275 - Andersdotter)

(87) These derogations should in particular apply to data transfers required and necessary for the protection of important grounds of public interest, for example in cases of international data transfers between competition authorities, tax or customs administrations, financial supervisory authorities, between services competent for social security matters, between bodies responsible for fighting fraud in sports, or to competent authorities for the prevention, investigation, detection and prosecution of criminal offences. Transferring personal data for such important grounds of public interest should only be used for occasional transfers. In each and every case, a careful assessment of all circumstances of the transfer needs to be carried out.

CA 26 to Recital 97 (replacing am. 284 - Andersdotter, and 285 - Valean, Creutzmann, Rohde, Kelly)

(97) Where the processing of personal data [deletion: in the context of the activities...] takes place in more than one Member State, one single supervisory authority should be competent for monitoring the activities of the controller or processor throughout the Union and taking the related decisions, in order to increase the consistent application, provide legal certainty and reduce administrative burden for such controllers and processors. When carrying out these activities, this supervisory authority should take appropriate steps to cooperate with its counterparts in other Member States where there are data subjects likely to be affected by the processing operations, involving the European Data Protection Board where appropriate, including by carrying out joint investigations. Appropriate mechanisms should be put in place to ensure that smaller supervisory authorities have the financial, administrative and human resources capacity to deal with any extra burdens that this places on them.

CA 27 to Recital 121 (replacing am. 18 - Rapporteur, 292 - Niebler and 293 - Andersdotter)

(121) The processing of personal data [deletion: solely] for journalistic purposes, or for the purposes of artistic or literary expression should qualify for exemption from the requirements of certain provisions of this Regulation in order to reconcile the right to the protection of personal data with the right to freedom of expression, and notably the right to receive and impart information, as guaranteed in particular by Article 11 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. This should apply in particular to processing of personal data in the audiovisual field and in news archives and press libraries. In order to take account of the importance of the right to freedom of expression in every democratic society, it is necessary to interpret notions relating to that freedom, such as journalism, broadly and irrespective of the medium which is used to transmit them.

CA 28 to Recital 129 (replacing am. 20 - Rapporteur, and 298 - Rübig)

(129) In order to fulfil the objectives of this Regulation, namely to protect the fundamental rights and freedoms of natural and legal persons and in particular their right to the protection of personal data and to ensure the free movement of personal data within the Union, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union should be delegated to the Commission, in certain limited circumstances. It is of particular importance that the Commission carry out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work, including at expert level. The Commission, when preparing and drawing-up delegated acts, should ensure a simultaneous, timely and appropriate transmission of relevant documents to the European Parliament and Council.

CA 29 to Recital 130 (replacing am. 299 - Valean, Creutzmann, 300 - Valean, Creutzmann, 301 - Gyürk, and 302 - Dati)

(130) In order to ensure uniform conditions for the implementation of this Regulation, implementing powers should be conferred on the Commission. In implementing the provisions of this Regulation, it shall be ensured that no mandatory requirements for specific technical features are imposed on products and services, including terminal or other electronic communications equipment, which could impede the placing of equipment on the market and the free circulation of such equipment in and between Member States. In this context, the Commission should consider specific measures for micro, small and medium-sized enterprises in consultation with the parties concerned, as these measures should not overly burden these enterprises.

Article 2 - paragraph 1

(Replacing amendments 308 - Valean, Creutzmann, and 309 - Kalfin)

CA 31
